

About Us | Contact Us

... The Online Marketing Source ...

HomeNewsSubscribeBiz Radio

Press Releases Help Improve SEO Presence for Small Businesses

Press releases can be a powerful tool, if leveraged correctly. Don't just send them, file them to a popular section of the company Web site as well.

"Every business has a reason to use press releases, but they should continue to use them long past the initial date they were sent out," explains Cher Murphy, president of Cher Murphy PR, a public relations firm with offices in Miami and Virginia. "Having an online press section is an effective way to bring traffic to the site, which will help translate to more business."

Every day, there are millions of online searches. Businesses that effectively use search engine optimization (SEO) are successful in showing up in the results, which ultimately drive traffic to their site.

"Many people, needing a product or service, don't necessarily know a company's name or Web site address, so they start by doing online searches," says Murphy. "If a company has a press section with releases that contain SEO terms, they have a good chance of coming up in the search results. It's an easy and cost-effective way to bring potential customers to a site."

In creating an online press section, businesses should always make sure the releases have been optimized. Use SEO keywords that are relevant to the business, service, and geographic location. Scatter the keywords throughout the release. Always have a link from the release to the company site. Leave the releases online, even after they are considered old. The more options a company has for coming up in search results, the better.

"SEO press releases are great at pulling in Web traffic," adds Murphy. "Not only can they be used on a company's site under a press section, they should also be released online to help create even more traffic for the site."

Many people do research regarding products and services online before going to make a purchase. Creating an SEO press release section on the company Web site is a powerful way to help new customers find your business.

Cher Murphy PR is a full-service public relations agency with offices in Miami and Virginia, focusing on small-business public relations management. Public relations veteran Cher Murphy, who has had experience working in large agencies as a vice president, writer, editor, client account specialist, and media relations professional, started the firm. For additional information, visit <http://www.chermurphypr.com/>.

return to this month's issue

The Latest Marketing Intelligence ...

XML

• Timeclocks Offer Positive Advantages For Employers, Employees

Timeclocks Offer Positive Advantages For Employers, Employees
\(more...\)

• Referrals: Getting the Most From the 'Low-Hanging Fruit' of Sales

Referrals should be considered the reward for a job well done. They are the by-product of your excellent customer service.
\(more...\)

• Thinking Outside the Door Builds Sales Even In Down Times

In today's challenging business climate, an organization's need to develop new and innovative products and services is at an all time high.
\(more...\)

• Experts Urge Companies To Look Inward For The Keys To 2009 Success

The seeds of company success in 2009 may rely on internal resources, according to a survey of experts across a broad spectrum of expertises.
\(more...\)

• 8 Skills For Closing The Communications Gap When English Is Not The First Language

Many companies lose valuable resources when employees are not empowered to speak-up because of language difficulties.
\(more...\)

Home | News | Subscribe | Biz Radio | Media Kit | About Us

Marketing leaders seek out information from other marketing managers to better manage their enterprises. Marketing executives focus on getting and keeping their organizations profitable. By providing information on finance, marketing, staffing, employees, technology and sales to marketing leaders this website provides a unique platform for information exchange. Marketing leaders are in need of information to increase productivity and raise profits.

This website's award-winning staff distills information from a variety of sources to create a digest of marketing strategies that work for other marketing managers. Offering marketing managers and owners the best in terms of information and suggestions, this website is designed to be an easy, short read.

Marketing managers seek solutions to everyday problems that affect their bottom-line. The best sources of these solutions are other marketing managers who have encountered and solved these obstacles.

By continuously reading this website, marketing managers can learn much to improve their small enterprises. Other managers with larger companies can also benefit.

Functionality and brevity are important to marketing managers, owners and that is what this website's editorial is based on. Marketing managers know this website will often be ahead of national media in identifying trends and potential obstacles to marketing success.

• Press Releases Help Improve SEO Presence for Small Businesses

Press releases can be a powerful tool, if leveraged correctly. Don't just send them, file them to a popular section of the company Web site as well.
(more...)

• How to Market to the Overlooked 25-34-year-old Age Segments

Marketers should target consumers based upon their engagement and participation in youth culture rather than on their chronological age.
(more...)

• Scalable Electronic Commerce Supply Chain Solution Improves Efficiency, Increases Profits

Timing is essential and inventory management makes all of the difference in a company's success.
(more...)

• Training a Sales Brain Is An Important Step To Adding Clients

Remember those tests taken in school to test verbal reasoning skills? They were called Chimera analogies and went something like this: Moon is to night as sun is to _____. Of course the answer is "day."
(more...)

© 2008 Information Strategies, Inc.
P.O. Box 563, Palisades Park, NJ 07560